Healing nature

In deference to nature and with pure intention, it was made possible for us to develop an exceptionally efficient and timeless concept to regenerate the body and balance the mind. We perceive human organism as a whole. There is neither health nor illness in it. There is just harmony and disharmony. We look for the causes of imbalance and restore the natural strength and vitality of the body by gently influencing it.

All our products are made with deep responsibility, using the latest knowledge of phytotherapy, aromatherapy and homeopathy and respecting the principles of Traditional Chinese medicine.

Our basic offer consists of unique products developed according to the highly effective method of the Regeneration in Pentagram®. These are five preparations representing the five basic elements: Wood, Fire, Earth, Metal and Water. Although each of them focuses on particular areas of human organism, these products complement and balance each other and, all together, they constitute a system for an efficient regeneration of the body.

Pentagram® herbal concentrates

The Pentagram® of herbal concentrates is a cornerstone of our offer. It is based on a holistic approach to a human, respecting the fact that body and mind are interconnected. It rests upon the ancient Yin-Yang theory and the theory of five elements, updated by the latest knowledge of modern science.

The preparations operate on two main levels in the human organism: Through phytotherapy, they influence individual body organs, and, through homeopathic components, they act upon the controlling subcortical centers in the brain and influence the very source of a disease.

These five herbal concentrates are composed to correspond to the energies of the five basic natural elements and to help bring all life processes in the body into a balance state: Vironal – Metal, Regalen – Wood, Renol – Water, Gynex – Earth, Korolen – Fire.

Green food

Green food, sometimes also designated as super food, comes from pure natural sources with a minimum degree of treatment and its significance is based on the diverse nutritional elements it contains. It is a source of essential vitamins, minerals, enzymes, antioxidants, amino acids and other substances which are important for our organism. Whereas synthetic preparations are sets of isolated substances, the individual effective components in green food work in complicated and precisely defined relationships. They work on the principle of synergy, i.e. the mutual interaction of a greater number of substances, whose subsequent effect is then multiplied.

Our mission is to seek out the best quintessence which can still be found in the long forgotten corners of our planet and on islands of pure environment. We then process these resources in an environmentally friendly manner, inspect them thoroughly and pack them while still fresh.

SPIRULINA BARLEY TABS

Product characteristics:
product containing blue- green algae and young barley extract
Content: 200 tablets

Use: Two different worlds combined in one exceptional preparation. The west: The high mountain lakes in the Andes are the place where we obtain and carefully process pure and valuable spirulina at a high altitude under the strong sun. The east: The Tibetan mountain plateau, a country of glacial water, crystal streams and clean mountain air, is the place where we take young barley at the time of its early growth and use it to prepare one of the most valuable extracts.

ORGANIC MACA POWDER

Product characteristics:
product containing Lepidium meyenii tuber in gelatinized powder
Content: 100 g

Use: Maca is a legendary plant from the Peruvian Andes used for centuries in traditional healing. The extensive plateaux are surrounded by high mountains consisting of limestone, dolomite and other minerals. Wind and rain dissolve them and enrich the soil in the lowlands with them. Maca has the wonderful ability of absorbing all of these substances and storing them in a pure, natural form. It contains many trace elements, vitamins, a large number of amino acids, glycosides, sterols, tannins, saponins, terpenoids and many others.

Pentagram® natural soaps

More and more often, the western civilizations turn to old teachings, trying to figure out former skills they have lost over the course of time. The most valuable state of a human is to remain in the center, in his/her internal core. Various life situations, however, do disbalance us quite often and, it is not always easy to return back to the center – to the original position of one's self.

The easiest way to this balance leads through small daily rituals. Just like bio-information creams, Pentagram® soaps and shampoos – Droserin, Protektin, Artrin, Cytovital and Ruticelit – contain herbal extracts, pure natural essences and tertiary thermal water. Not only do they have beneficial effects on the skin and hair but, through the energy system of acupuncture points and reflexive zones, they can influence our overall physical condition and emotional state. Gentle effects and the highest possible natural formulas of these products are an advantage.

PROTEKTIN SOAP

ARTRIN SOAP

Product characteristics:
natural glycerin soap containing herbal extracts, essential oils
and thermal water
Content: 100 g

Use: This soap increases resistance of the skin to bacterial infections. It may be used in wet eczema skin care. It increases the production of sweat glands thus ensuring a positive effect on dry skin. It accelerates the penetration of metabolites (salts) through the skin; this is usable in cases of gout and other metabolic disorders. This soap can be recommended also in cases of malodorous sweating.

Hair care products

The effects of Pentagram concentrates and creams can be supported and supplemented not only by the use of the soaps but also by the shampoos. Based on that combination, organism recovery will be accelerated and the traditional principle of Chinese medicine – i.e. the concurrent action from the inside and outside – will be fulfilled.

In doing so, we will contribute to the creation and strengthening of harmony and make use of the proven recipe for a satisfied and meaningful life. The care for our health and for the balance of our life will get a new and unexpected dimension. The individual soaps and shampoos of the Pentagram® support the action of the five elements.
